In a series of Lightning Talks presented by Health Equity Researchers, faculty will deliver a 5-minute talk about a research idea with the objectives of engaging transdisciplinary partners and receiving brief and stimulating feedback for the project. The presentation is followed by Q&A and advice (e.g., ideas, suggestions for collaborators) from the audience to assist the presenter in moving forward. Faculty who present lightning talks will be invited to apply for seed funding for their projects in 2023.
